Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport's first outdoor concert of the summer season was a washout last Friday night, but the performers and the audience returned Saturday night for a perfect evening of music and fireworks.

The annual pre-Fourth of July concert, "Star Spangled Spectacular," performed by Navy Band Northeast, kicked off Friday at 5. Its rock band, Rhode Island Sound, was performing when downpours sent the crowd of about 5,000 running for cover.

A larger crowd returned Saturday, estimated between 10,000 and 15,000, where the picnic-style concert picked up where it left off.

Many in the audience both nights showed their patriotic pride, wearing red, white and blue outfits and sporting facial artwork of American flags or "USA." They claimed viewing spots on the hillside, spreading out blankets or setting up chairs.

Refreshments were sold from concession tents operated by the Morale, Welfare and Recreation Department.

themselves with outdoor games or just sat and enjoyed the breeze off Narragansett Bay.

Day two led off with a special guest performance by The East Providence Community Chorus singing a program of patriotic tunes.

Cmdr. Jim Cunha, Executive Officer, NAVSTA Newport, and a native of the Rumford section of East Providence, introduced the 120-member choral group.

At 8:23 the crowd was asked to stand and face the flag at the top of Dewey Field for evening colors. A moment of silence was spent in remembrance of those who were killed Sept. 11 and in the country's continuing war on terrorism, while the band played Taps and The Navy Hymn.

The final performance of the evening by the Navy Band Northeast

Concert Band took the audience's patriotism to another level. It played a variety of traditional patriotic favorites, including Stars and Stripes Forever and The 1812 Overture. The latter ended with a cannon salute from a saluting battery.

Many of those returning for the second day of the pre-Independence Day celebration, said the performances were well worth the effort.

Lt. Ray Penland, Director, Navy Band Northeast, said the concert was a great success.

"Although we were rained out on Friday evening, Saturday evening's audience was large and enthusiastic and the band performed magnificently.

"The temperature was perfect, the setting beautiful, the music patriotic and uplifting, and the fireworks spectacular — what a great way to spend an evening," he said.

Middletown resident and World War II veteran William Mataraud said, "The view is outstanding, there is a great setup, and you couldn't ask for a better place on the whole island to have it."

Retired Cmdr. John C. Powell enjoyed the music with his wife. "We haven't missed a concert yet since they started. They are just excellent."

The evening concluded with a dazzling 30-minute fireworks display over Narragansett Bay.

The summer Concert Series is free. The public as guests of Commanding Officer, NAVSTA Newport. The next concert will be "Swinging into Summer," July 19.

THE EAST Providence Community Chorus lends its voice to the summer concert on Saturday night.

KIPPIE, a 10-month-old papillon owned by Ensigns Thomas and Jennifer Berg, sports a patriotic visor as she watches the music and crowds.

NAVSTA's tapwater gets clean bill of health

Naval Station NAVSTA Newport's tap water is safe to drink, the Environmental Protection Division water quality engineer reports.

An extensive report, the Naval Station Newport Drinking Water Consumer Confidence Report for calendar year 2001, was released recently as required by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Aquidneck Island has seven fresh water ponds as sources for drinking water, plus two reserve sources in Tiverton and Little Compton. The Navy buys its water from the city of Newport. The water is treated at two treatment plants before being distributed to NAVSTA.

Engineer William Monaco said NAVSTA conducts daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly and yearly testing to ensure safe, high quality drinking water.

The water distribution system and its operation have undergone many improvements over the past year, he said. A new Valve Exercise and a Flushing Program were established for NAVSTA, and more than $300,000 has been spent on maintenance and water quality testing.

The only areas of concern were slight elevations of lead at two NAVSTA sites tested, and total coliform at Fort Adams.

Both readings were below Maximum Contaminant Levels allowed by the EPA. Coliforms are bacteria which are naturally present in the environment.

Parade, fireworks highlight holiday

By RICHARD ALEXANDER

Navalog writer

Patriotism is the key word for the long Fourth of July Weekend, so between the beaches and barbecues there are plenty of fireworks displays, parades, a Civil War-era encampment, and even a visit by the Mayflower II.

The 106-foot sailing ship, homeported in Plymouth, Mass., passed through Narragansett Bay last Sunday and is now berthed at India Point Park in Providence. It's open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through July 4.

There's nothing quite as patriotic as a July 4th parade, and Bristol, R.I., has the granddaddy of them all. The 217th Bristol Civic, Military and Firemen's Parade will step off at 10:30 a.m.

The two-hour march will include a strong representation from Navy Newport's schools and commands: the Naval Science Institute, the Officer Indoctrination School, the Naval Chaplains School and a color guard from the Naval Ambulatory Care Center, Newport.

Cmdr. Jim Cunha, Executive Officer of NAVSTA, will be the marshal of the Navy Division.

Also, a 17-member marching unit from the fleet ballistic missile submarine USS Rhode Island of Kings Bay, Ga., will join thee parade units, and the visiting guided missile frigate USS Stephen W. Groves will be anchored outside Bristol Harbor.

There will be plenty of fireworks displays in the area. The City of Newport's fireworks

Prosthodontist puts bright smile on face

CMDR. (DR.) BEN HUNTER
Naval Dental Center Northeast

Prosthodontics is the dental specialty related to the replacement and restoration of teeth. A Prosthodontist is a dentist who has completed four years of dental school and an additional three years in advance post graduate study in the creation of tooth replacements and the maintenance of a healthy smile.

Prosthodontists are the architect of complex dental treatment, acting as the coordinator with other specialties and general dentists to provide solutions to your dental problems.

Our goal is providing dental care to improve or restore the appearance and function of teeth, and ultimately creating a healthy smile. If you think of your smile as a painting, then your face would be the frame, with your gums the canvas, and your teeth as the picture. These three parts should be in harmony to create a pleasing overall appearance.

When they are not in harmony due to disease or trauma, a diagnosis based on a lot of information is required. A thorough exam, radiographs (x-rays), photos, impressions of your teeth, and your dental and health history may all be needed. Additional consults with other specialists may be required as the complexity of your health or severity of your

By LT. J.G. PETER FEHRING
Public Affairs, Naval War College

The Naval War College hosted a conference on International Law and The War on Terrorism, June 26 to 28.

Rear Adm. Rodney P. Rempt, President, NWC, opened the conference with a series of questions for the participants, including how to classify prisoners of war, if terrorists qualify for that title under the Geneva Convention, and a consideration for revision of the Geneva Convention.

In other areas, Rempt was looking ahead to the future, knowing that U.S. and Allied agencies such as the CIA and FBI will most likely take part in combat activities during armed conflict. Rempt posed thought-provoking questions for the participants to ponder and discuss over the course of the three-day conference:

"Are these personnel considered lawful combatants? Did they uphold or violate the Law of Armed Conflict in Afghanistan? What are the standards of treatment of captured terrorist personnel? How do we deal with the issue of citizens, not in traditional uniforms, who are firing on U.S. or Allied troops?"

The conference panelists discussed a range of topics from the use of force in Operation Enduring Freedom and in operations against terrorism, to the challenges of interpreting international law, the legal treatment of detainees, tribunals and the future application of the Law of Armed Conflict.

"Having all of you here at this conference is very important to the current and future defense of the nation. I encourage you to press the envelope in your critical thinking and foster new ideas on these important issues," said Rempt. "We need your academic and analytical thinking while you're here at the War College."

"I think we should look at writing new precedents here. Our current law and approach to dealing with terrorism may not be applicable in the future," said Rempt. "What legal actions should we take in this rapidly changing world situation?"

"These are questions you will be answering. I can tell you the results of this conference will be viewed immediately at the highest levels of U.S. government and hopefully in other countries as well."

Smile

problems increase. Deciding what needs to be done and when it should be done can often be more important than how your problem is solved. The good news is that Prosthodontists have a big bag of tricks to correct most problems.

Cosmetic dentistry is at an all time high with a great appearance becoming tantamount in our culture. Bleaching techniques can change the color of teeth.

Selective removal of parts of your teeth and placement of small tooth colored fillings can achieve excellent results. Another option may be placing porcelain veneers on your front teeth to correct minor defects, change color, close spaces, or realign slightly crooked teeth.

As more parts of your teeth are missing due to disease or trauma, more complex care and parts are required to restore your teeth. A crown (cap) may be needed if a significant amount of the tooth is missing, or regular fillings are inadequate to restore the tooth.

If teeth are missing, a bridge may be used to connect the remaining teeth and fill the space. Removable partial dentures are used when more teeth are lost and supporting bone and gums have receded. Full dentures are used when all the teeth are missing.

Dental implants are one of the exciting innovations in Prosthodontics. Titanium dental implants act as root replacements for missing teeth. Special attachments can be used to help retain removable dentures and fixed bridges. If a single tooth is missing, crowns can be attached to the implants without affecting the adjacent teeth.

You can obtain more information at www.prosthodontics.org or to ask questions about this article, please visit our Command's Website at [h t t p : / / w w w - n d c n e . m e d . n a v y . m i l](http://h t t p : / / w w w - n d c n e . m e d . n a v y . m i l). So with a little science, a little art, a bit of magic and a lot of patience, your smile can be restored too.

65, they represented at least two branches of service, and included civilians, enlisted and officers. The event began at the town's elementary school.

Most team members elected to participate in the 5K walk, but one member, Hospitalman Apprentice Stephanie Giroux from the General Surgery Clinic, rode in the 50K bicycle ride portion. A 25k and 100k were bike ride options.

Considering that the team was born a mere two weeks prior to the event and that the last member joined on May 13, it still raised an estimated $1,500 to support diabetic needs in Rhode Island.

Each member raised and turned in at least $75.

Hospital Corpsman Second Class Henry Halvorsen (Physical Therapy) with assistance from his wife, raised over $300 and was the top fundraiser on the team this year.

Class Christopher Ehmann (Security), Mrs. Wendy Ehmann (Library), retired Army Chief Warrant Officer 2 William Bowen, and Lt. Price.

Contributions for this year's event were accepted until June 21. However, anyone wanting to contribute to diabetic needs in Rhode Island may call the Diabetes Foundation of Rhode Island at 725-7800.

For more information regarding diabetic programs in Rhode Island or diabetes, visit the official website for the American Diabetes Association.

Crew of Trident sub to join Bristol parade

BRISTOL — For the fourth consecutive year, crewmembers from the ballistic missile submarine USS Rhode Island will march in the 217th Bristol Fourth of July Parade. This year it will be the Gold Crew.

Homeported in King's Bay, Ga., most of USS Rhode Island's crew hails from various locations within the country. Very few, if any, are native Rhode Islanders. But yet, the crew comes every year to honor the state for which the boat was named. It was commissioned at Pier Two, now Naval Station Newport, in 1994.

On Sept. 11, the Gold Crew was coming into port in King's Bay after an exhausting three month deployment. Looking forward to seeing family and friends, morale among the officers and crew was high, especially after the tight confines of a submarine.

Family members stood on the pier watching the tug pulling the sub slowly up the channel. No one knew about the planes that struck the World Trade Center and the Pentagon — not the Gold Crew in the Rhode Island, nor the family and friends standing on the pier anxiously awaiting loved ones.

Then abruptly, the tug turned and took the USS Rhode Island back out to sea, where it stayed for another three weeks defending our country's security.

Community groups and schools in Portsmouth and Newport areas have sent both the Blue and Gold crews letters, cards, and holiday greetings. These adults and children will have the opportunity to meet the gold crew today, July 3.

The crew is also invited to a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Millard Jr. of Bristol. The Gold Crew will also meet some retired military personnel during their stay.

Fireworks

will be shot from a barge off Fort Adams on July 4 at 9:30 p.m. Come down to the Officers' Club deck and watch the display over Narragansett Bay.

All authorized patrons are invited to enjoy beverage service beginning at 4 p.m. and the ever-popular Lobsters for Happy Hour menu beginning at 5 p.m. The pub menu will also be available until 10 p.m.

If the weather is rainy, Lobsters for Happy Hour moves Topside. For more information, call the Officers' Club at 841-4821.

If reliving American history is your forte, then drop by Fort Adams on July 6 and 7 when about 600 men and their families will reenact life during the Civil War. Besides Union and Confederate artillery duels and infantry skirmishes, there will be a band concert and a visit by a Mary Todd Lincoln.

USS Monitor recovery begins at Hatteras

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Navy divers are gathering at Cape Hatteras, N.C., to continue salvage operations to recover the gun turret from the Civil War iron-clad USS Monitor.

One hundred twenty divers from Mobile Diving and Salvage Unit Two in Little Creek, Va., and other Navy diving commands, including the Naval Sea Systems Command's Supervisor of Diving and Salvage, will participate in this year's Monitor Expedition.

For the fifth consecutive year, the Navy, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) and the Mariner's Museum in Newport News, Va., are working together at the dive site to recover Monitor artifacts.

The mission will begin later this month and run until early August.

This year, the expedition's goal is to recover the 120-ton gun turret that detached from the vessel when it sank to the bottom of the ocean in 1862 and came to rest under the ship's stern.

The salvage effort will involve clearing 100 tons of the ship's armor belt and stern section to expose the turret, and then removing approximately 100 tons of silt from the turret before lifting it to the surface.

In addition, divers will search the turret area for additional artifacts. A small pierside ceremony at Newport News is being considered when the turret is brought in.

The turret and any other artifacts will go to the Mariner's Museum for display. To date, dive teams have recovered the ship's cast-iron propeller shaft and engine.

For more information on the Monitor recovery project, go to www.monitorcenter.org.

Adm. Nanos, NAVSEA commander, retires

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Vice Adm. Pete Nanos, who led Naval Sea Systems Command (NAVSEA) through a corporate renaissance over the past four years, retired from the Navy June 26 at the Washington Navy Yard after 35 years of service.

Nanos, a native of Bedford, N.H., has commanded NAVSEA, the Navy's largest acquisition organization, since May 1998. In addition, he is also the Navy's senior engineering duty officer.

Nanos successfully led NAVSEA through a transformation of its business practices in executing complex acquisition and fleet maintenance and modernization responsibilities.

Navy's zero tolerance policy making strides

WASHINGTON (NNS) — With the lowest drug usage rates in 21 years, the Navy is making great strides toward its goal of zero percent drug use among Sailors.

The cornerstone of the Navy's success with its zero tolerance drug abuse policy is an aggressive and random urinalysis program.

In the first seven months of fiscal year 2002 the Navy's drug positive rate was 0.62 percent compared to 0.77 percent during the same timeframe in FY01. There have been 43,000 more Sailors tested so far this year than last year, yet 499 fewer Sailors have tested positive.

"Despite the success to date, we must continue to press until the positive rate gets to and stays at 0.00 percent," said Chief of Naval Personnel Vice Adm. Norb Ryan Jr. "The Navy's commitment to a drug-free Navy will remain strong."

New MCPON visits deployed USS Wasp

USS WASP, At Sea (NNS) — Under hazy overcast skies, Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy (SS/AW) Terry Scott touched down on USS Wasp's (LHD 1) flight deck in a CH-46 "Sea Knight" helicopter, marking his first visit to a ship at sea since taking the position as the Navy's top enlisted adviser seven weeks ago.

Once on deck, his visit included a tour of the ship's engineering spaces, hangar bay, well deck and combat information center (CIC).
